Questions and Answers

Question 1: Laptop Bluetooth Restrictions (Section 1.10): The SOW notes that "NO TWO-WAY BLUETOOTH IS PERMITTED" on the dedicated laptops. To ensure absolute compliance, is a hardware-level BIOS disablement of the Bluetooth chip acceptable, or does the command require the physical removal of the internal wireless card?

Answer 1: As long as Bluetooth can't be reenabled, disablement of the chip is acceptable.

Question 2: Software Licensing (Section 2.0.10): The requirement mentions providing a price list for software license maintenance. Is NAVOCEANO anticipating a traditional perpetual license model with annual maintenance options, or should we factor a multi-year subscription tier directly into our base quote?

Answer 2: Please factor a multi-year subscription tier into the quote.

Question 3: Documentation Format (Section 2.0.7): For any "or equal" software components, is there a specific preferred layout for the communications protocol documentation, or will standard developer API/SDK reference manuals suffice?

Answer 3: Standard developer reference manuals will suffice.

Question 4: Please confirm the required delivery timeline for the subject requirement at your earliest convenience. It was noticed that there are 2 different timelines listed in the PWS, sixty (60) days is listed in 1.2 while nine (9) months is listed in 3.1. Thank you.

Answer 4: The required delivery date is sixty (60) days after award.
